

Alica Daly – Biography

Alica Daly is the Senior Policy Officer in the IP and Frontier Technologies Division at the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO). She is responsible for coordinating policies in relation to frontier technologies and data in the context of IP and innovation.

Alica graduated with a PhD in organic chemistry from the University of Melbourne. She subsequently joined IP Australia as a patent examiner in 2007. In 2014, Alica became the first Head of Patent Analytics at IP Australia.

Alica has worked at WIPO since 2017 in a number of roles. She worked as a research fellow in the Department for Economics and Data Analytics on a project about innovation in the mining industry. She also worked in the Innovation and Knowledge Infrastructure Department coordinating a project to assist developing countries improve their capacity in technology transfer and commercialization across the innovation value chain.